Are Offered Her Attorneys as Divorce Trial Proceeds

MRS. TAGGART FEELS BETTER

MAJ. MORTON'S DEPOSITION IS READ TO THE COURT

Capt. Taggart's Wife in Interview at Wooster Monday Said She Hopes Her Boys Will Not Enlist in Army.

Wooster, O., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Taggart in the court room today was given a chair at her attorneys' table, where they might refer to her at any moment. She watched closely each development of the testimony and seemed to offer many suggestions as the trial proceeded. She seemed in better spirits than at any time of the first week of the trial.

At the opening of court the reading of the deposition of Major Morton began Saturday was continued.

Major Morton's testimony was that Captain Taggart showed no sign of intoxication five weeks he was in a hospital at Fort Leavenworth at a time he alleges his wife by conspiracy had him confined there on a false charge of alcoholism. Then the cigarette question came up. Attorney Wertz said Fortaque's deposition will be that it was the custom for ladies at Fort Leavenworth to smoke cigarettes after dinner. Major Morton's deposition reads that it is not the custom for ladies in army circles to smoke cigarettes. He wasn't allowed to say whether it is the custom for ladies in army circles to smoke them after dinner. Major Morton said he did not remember if he had ever seen Mrs. Taggart smoke.

"In the army," said the witness, "many officers drink socially as do men in civil life, but the habit of becoming intoxicated is looked down on and discontinued. Captain Taggart's treatment of his wife should be a model for every man in the world."

Major Morton declined to answer a question as to whether garrison gossip came to him at the time of Captain Taggart's confinement that Captain Taggart had beaten his wife. Finally he said that the principal reason given in the post gossip for Captain Taggart's confinement was that the post commander wanted to keep him where he couldn't talk. I tried to see Captain Taggart and was told there were orders that none be allowed to see him. Referring to drinking, Morton said that Captain Taggart, since he left West Point, had been in the habit of taking the ordinary prescription. The ordinary prescription, he said, was whisky straight, not in highballs. They did not always drink when they called on each other, he said. He did not remember that they ever had more than one drink together at one time. Continuing in re-examination of his testimony regarding Captain Taggart's confinement in the hospital, Major Morton said it was most unusual to lock a commissioned officer in a hospital. He knew of but one other case. Then the patient had delirium tremens. Major Morton said he knew Captain Taggart had no physical or mental disability on this occasion. He said he went to Captain Taggart's room, on the third floor of the hospital, and found him in charge of a sergeant, but behind locked doors. It was Col. Minor, now retired, who was post commander at the time, said Major Morton. "I would never consent to have my boys enter the service," said Mrs. Grace Taggart today. "There is too much drinking in the army."

Both the boys, Culver, aged 11, and Elmore, 7, admire greatly the soldierly Captain Taggart. They play at soldiers in the shaded lane that runs beside their home. Their companion in this sport a small colored youngster. Both Culver and Elmore are captains turn about. The colored boy is the whole valiant army. Does Mrs. Taggart watch this play with some sinking of heart?

In the Taggart divorce trial today the deposition of Col. John Vanhoff, assistant surgeon general, was read. He said: "I was at Fort Leavenworth on the morning of July 1, 1903, and went with the commanding officer, Colonel Minor, to see Mrs. Taggart. The officer said he wished to consult with me about a disagreeable occurrence at the post. He said it had been reported to him that Taggart had assaulted his wife and that she feared for her life. Colonel Minor said he wanted my advice as an army officer. While we were talking Taggart and other officers entered. Taggart said he thought if he could see his wife she would not press her charges. Colonel Minor refused to let him go, and refused to go himself alone, so I accompanied him. Mrs. Taggart did not seem to be in a nervous condition. Her face was swollen and bruised. While I talked with Mrs. Taggart the following day, I remember she said she had always been a true and faithful wife. I was in charge of the hospital at the time Captain Taggart was confined there and he showed no sign of intoxication."

Fannie Everly, aged 12, of Pittsburg, was put on the stand today. She said: "Five years ago I lived at Orrville. I used to go to Mrs. Taggart's house almost every day. I saw Billy Taggart nearly every time I went there. Once I saw Billy Taggart and Mrs. Taggart in the parlor when the door was closed. I looked through the keyhole. Culver went to the keyhole first. He called me and I looked in after him. I saw Mrs. Taggart and Billy. They sat on chairs close together holding hands. That was all. Billy and Mrs. Taggart came out and told us to run along and play. Billy offered us some oranges if we would go out. We said we would go out for a quarter. Bill didn't have a quarter but gave us a nickel and we went out. Mrs. Taggart said my face was dirty and that I had better go home, so I did."

Mrs. Taggart says she left Orrville May 8 for a Cincinnati hospital where she remained several months.

Affairs of the Parkersburg, W. Va., Building Association Are Further Tangled by New Suit.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 7.—The affairs of the Homestead Building association, which has been in financial difficulties for several months, were still further tangled when a suit was filed by Frank P. Moats, former speaker of the West Virginia house of delegates, in behalf of 12 stockholders, against the officers and directors of the association, the sureties of the bond of the late Treasurer J. H. Fischer, and the trustee appointed by the stockholders some months ago. The papers in the suit set forth that it is brought for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the association, recovering funds alleged to have been misappropriated, compelling the officers and directors to render an account of their administration. A receiver is asked for.

FLYER STRIKES A STREET CAR

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT RAILWAY CROSSING IN CLEVELAND - SUNDAY NIGHT.

One Person Killed, Six Fatally Hurt and Fifteen Badly Injured—Headlight Not Seen.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 7.—One person was killed instantly, six fatally injured and 15 badly hurt Sunday night, when the last Pittsburg flyer, 560, on Cleveland and Pittsburg road, crashed into a St. Clair avenue streetcar. The accident happened without warning as the streetcar conductor had just crossed the railroad tracks to see that the line was clear and had thrown a safety derail switch to permit the car to pass. The headlight of the train was not visible nor was its rumbling heard until it was but a short distance from the crossing. The conductor let go the derail switch in time to throw the rear truck of his car off the track, but not in time to prevent the front end from being struck and the car hurled around until it stood parallel with the railroad track. The car had 40 passengers, who were bound for their homes and from amusement resorts along the car line. Only a few escaped uninjured, and they were persons occupying the rear of the car. Ambulances from all parts of the city were summoned at once and the wounded taken to their homes or hospitals. Most of the injured constituted family parties, and in several instances all the members of a family are among the injured.

The train was running at a fast rate of speed when the accident occurred, and the engineer could not check the speed of his train in time to mitigate the disaster. The safety gates with which the crossing is provided were up at the time, and as the railroad makes a curve at this point the conductor could not see the flyer approaching.

The dead: Cora May Martin, 2, daughter of James Martin. Fatally injured: Mrs. James Martin, Gertrude Martin, Frank Williamson (motorman of wrecked car), Mrs. Patrick Kilduff, Michael Hussey, Lucy Halter. Seriously injured: Charles Martin, 8; James Kilduff, 8; Patrick Kilduff, John Kilduff, Mrs. Fred Ott. Minor injuries: Fred Ott, Jr., Anna Riff, Miss Elizabeth Sessler, Mrs. Wickeman, Mrs. Frank Hardy, F. E. Kroose, Mrs. F. E. Kroose, John Halter.

DELAYED BY A DENSE FOG

Peace Plenipotentiaries Will Not Meet Until Tuesday.

THICK WEATHER ON OCEAN

Envoy Witte Leaves His Vessel at Newport and Proceeds to Portsmouth by Rail—Everything in Readiness for the Conference Between the Representatives.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 7.—Instead of arriving at Portsmouth on Monday, the vessels placed at the disposal of the Russian and Japanese peace delegations will not reach here before Tuesday. The ships arrived off Newport Sunday evening and the converted yacht Mayflower, with Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen, came into port. After a stay of nearly five hours Mr. Witte left for Boston on a special train at 10 p. m. He remained in that city until Monday, when he proceeded to Portsmouth by rail. Baron Rosen returned on board the Dolphin. The squadron Sunday encountered a dense fog, and anchored for a time two miles off New London before proceeding to Newport.

Everything is in readiness at the naval stores building, where the peace plenipotentiaries are to hold their daily sessions. The second floor of the building is to be occupied by the peace missions. The conference room is in the center of the building, over the main entrance. Adjoining it on one side is a suite of three spacious rooms, which have been assigned to the Japanese envoys. On the other side is a reception room dedicated to the representatives of the United States government. Beyond this is a suite of three rooms for the use of the Russian mission. On either side of a corridor which divides the building are large dining rooms, where midday luncheons will be served separately to the respective missions, and in the eastern dining room Admiral Mead, commandant of the navy yard, will serve a breakfast to the envoys, their suites and about 60 invited guests.

Two fireproof rooms have been fitted up for the storage of documents. The conference room is imposingly furnished. A mammoth table in the center is surrounded by huge chairs, beautifully upholstered in black leather. On the floor is a costly Persian rug. At either end of the room are mahogany tables adapted for clerical work. The walls of the rooms are draped with flags used by the navy in making the international code signals. These flags relieve the bare walls in all of the rooms, and are the only decorations. Handsome desks, chairs and tables make all of the rooms appear in elegant dignity. Persian rugs are laid upon all the floors. It has cost the United States government $15,000 to equip the quarters for the conference. Without the building all appearance of newness has been removed. The borders of the newly laid cement walk have been sanded, and the gravel walk leading to the landing 1,000 feet away has been put in repair.

Suggests Russo-American Alliance.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 7.—The republication here by the Novoe Vremya of an article written in 1859 by Alexander Hertzzen, the Russian author and agitator, in which a strong plea is made for a Russo-American alliance, and in which the American and European systems of government are compared most favorably to that of America, is not without interest and is of considerable significance, particularly in view of the general political situation and the fact that Russia is today upon the point of establishing a general assembly and granting the country some sort of a constitution. The presence of the Russian peace plenipotentiaries in the United States also adds significance to the republication of the article, as likewise does the Novoe Vremya's relations with the government. The Novoe Vremya is fully aware that the relaunching today of Hertzzen's ideas is acceptable to the government, and in fact the printing of it may be called semi-official. Hertzzen died in Paris Jan. 21, 1870, after many years of exile because of his advanced ideas, which were not acceptable to the Russian government.

When the appeal to the Supreme court had failed I gave up all hope and prepared for death. Three days before the day for my execution my wife gave birth to a little girl, our first born. I heard that my wife was very ill and not expected to live. She died on the morning of July 12, and it was my expected death that killed her. On the morning of July 12 I was dressed for the gallows and all the last formalities were gone through with. I heard the death warrant read without a tremor. I had been afraid in the days before, but I was calm and self-possessed. I used to wonder how a man felt when about to be hanged, and I thought as many others do that there was a terrible fear and fright that was horrible but I know better now. The good God that prepares a man for death under other circumstances is with him on the gallows, and mercifully gives courage for the ordeal. I was made to stand on the trap door, the trigger having been set and the noose was tied about my neck. I closed my eyes and made a short fervent prayer. One of my attorneys, Charles Bartholomew, the Congressman, jumped upon the scaffold and said: "This man is innocent, and I will die by him."

Judge Simms had granted a 20-minute reprieve so that Governor or Smith, who was then the Governor of Georgia, could be heard from by wire about a petition asking that my sentence be commuted to life imprisonment. The governor wired to the sheriff that my petition had been granted. The noose was taken from my neck and I was told that life was mine. Life? What had I gained? (Continued on page 5, 3d col.)

St. Petersburg, Aug. 7.—The yacht Mayflower and despatch boat Dolphin, with the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries conveyed by the cruiser Galveston, left Newport harbor at 8 o'clock this morning for Portsmouth, N. H. They expect to arrive there Tuesday morning.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 7.—The torpedo boat which was sent in pursuit of the battleship Kniaz Potemkin while she was in the hands of mutineers, has returned to Sevastopol. The torpedo boat is manned exclusively by officers who were supposed to be loyal to the government. The delay in the warship getting back to port was caused by the fact that her engines were damaged. This is regarded as significant and in the general opinion shows that the spirit of revolution prevails among the officers of the navy to as great an extent as it does among the sailors.

The attorney general at Nishni Novgorod has obtained definite proofs that the police participated in the massacres which occurred there recently beginning on July 27. The trouble has not yet been settled as roughs continue to harass the people. The mayor of the town has been summoned to St. Petersburg to make a report in regard to the riots to the minister of the interior.

Peasants in the government of Tamboff are pillaging the estates of land owners. It is estimated that they have carried away or destroyed 3,000,000 pounds of stores in the last few days. Peasants in the villages near Bialystok have likewise engaged in attacks upon the land owners. They have threatened the proprietors of the large estates with death if their demands for money are not complied with.

TWICE SENTENCED

And Once Rope Was Around Innocent Man's Neck

SERVED 21 YEARS IN PRISON

FOR MURDER THAT HIS ENEMY COMMITTED IN SOUTH

Franklin Released at Old Age to Find Himself Penniless—State May Pay Him for Years He Has Suffered.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 7.—Arrested, tried and convicted in Macon, Ga., for a murder he never committed, Charles Henry Franklin stood on the scaffold with the noose around his neck. A twenty-minute reprieve secured a commutation to a life sentence, and for more than 21 years he toiled in convict stripes, only the death-bed confession of the true murderer securing a release from a life worse than death.

Bowed with age and the effects of many years of arduous toil, the man who suffered for another's crime came out of the convict camp like a prisoner from the Bastille to find his wife dead, his only child, whom he had never seen, married and a mother, bereft of friends and home, ill and a pauper.

Franklin is in Atlanta awaiting the result of an effort which is being made to get the Legislature to remunerate him for the years he lost while working as a convict when he was an innocent man. From his own lips comes the story of his life, freighted with more suffering of mind, soul and body than can be conjured up in the tales of the Bastille and the Inquisition.

He said: "I was born in Maine in 1840, and came to Georgia in 1861. I enlisted in the Confederate army, in the Griffin Volunteers. After the war I went to Macon. In 1880 I had a fight with Fred Knight and whipped him. That same year, in July, Mr. Bryant was found stabbed and in a dying condition. Knight informed the officers of the law that I had done the stabbing, and I was arrested and placed in jail. Bryant was engaged to be married to Knight's sister, and after he was stabbed he married her. It was thought he was getting well, and he went to Augusta, where he died two months after he was stabbed. I believe that Knight stabbed Bryant because he did not want him to marry his sister. Knight didn't say this in his deathbed confession, but I think that was the case."

"I was placed on trial in October, 1880. Knight swore that he saw me with Bryant a short while before the stabbing, and he stole $900 from his father, with which he hired two negroes to swear against me. One of the negroes testified that he heard me say that I would fix Bryant. I was convicted and sentenced to hang by Judge T. J. Simmons, now Chief Justice of Georgia. At my second trial in April, 1881, I was again convicted and sentenced to hang on July 1, 1881."

"When the appeal to the Supreme court had failed I gave up all hope and prepared for death. Three days before the day for my execution my wife gave birth to a little girl, our first born. I heard that my wife was very ill and not expected to live. She died on the morning of July 12, and it was my expected death that killed her. ## CLANS CLASH IN A THEATER

Bloody Affray Occurs In the Heart of New York's Chinatown.

MANY KILLED OR WOUNDED

Playhouse Was Packed to the Doors and When the Shooting Commenced a Wild Panic Ensued—Police Fill Adjacent Police Stations With the Participants in the Affair.

New York, Aug. 7.—As a result of a battle between two of the big Chinese societies in the Chinese theater in Doyer street three Chinamen were killed, two others probably fatally wounded and many others injured. When the police succeeded in breaking up the riot they had arrested more than enough inhabitants of the Chinese district to fill the Elizabeth street and other police stations in the vicinity. According to a report made by the police, the Hip Sing Tong started the trouble and deliberately selected the Chinese theater, which is seldom visited by the police, as the most favorable scene for operations. The theater seats about 1,900 people, and on Sunday night, when the quarter is crowded with visitors from all over the metropolitan districts, is packed.

When the battle began not a seat was to be had, and many were standing. Among the latter, in the back of the theater, were several of the Hip Sing Tong members, with big revolvers concealed beneath their flowing garments.

Suddenly, as the actors on the stage reached a climax in the play, there was a loud explosion, quickly followed by several others in the front of the theater, near the stage. The actors fled in terror and the packed audience surged as far as it could toward the rear, where several of the Hip Sing Tongs began an indiscriminate fusillade into the throng. It developed later that the first explosions were made by huge firecrackers. Finally, in desperation, the audience charged on the men with revolvers and, bearing them down, got to the one exit which was open. There they fought desperately to reach the street.

The first explosions had startled the quarter, and as the theater poured its frantic crowd into Doyer street the packed tenement houses, filled for the most part with Chinese, but with a sprinkling of white men and women, added their crowds, and for the next hour Chinatown was the scene of the wildest excitement.

When the five policemen managed to force their way into the theater they found five men lying in pools of blood and a score or more hiding under benches, the backs of which were splintered with bullets. Mock Duck, alleged to be leader of the Hip Sing Tong, was arrested. According to statements made by Chinamen he investigated the affair.

YACHTING WEEK

And Presence of King Edward Bring Out Large Numbers of Fashionable People—Prospects Bright.

Cowes, I.-I. of Wight, Aug. 7.—The week of yachting opened today with dull weather. Notwithstanding this fact, however, the roads were crowded with numerous excursion and pleasure boats as well as many private yachts. Most famous English and American yachts will compete in the races and the prospects for a successful week are bright. The presence of the king here has been responsible for bringing out large crowds of fashionable people.

FOUR MEN

Charged With Brutal Assault on Two Young Girls.

Owingsville, Ky., Aug. 7.—Four men are being guarded in the West Liberty jail. They are charged with abusing the 16 and 12 year old daughters of Lewis Phipps, a farmer. One of the prisoners is named Quicksall. The names of the others are not known. A meeting was in progress in a schoolhouse near the Phipps home, and the two girls attended. Returning home afterward, they were compelled to pass through a woods. Five men sprang upon the girls, stifled their cries and dragged them to a place where they were held prisoners all night long. The girls were criminally assaulted, it is alleged. When daylight appeared the men had disappeared. The girls dragged themselves to their home and arrived there more dead than alive. Four suspects were arrested. One confessed and supplied the details that implicated the others. Two are married men, and all are over 21. The fifth man is being pursued by the officers. Lynching has been openly advocated.

IN NEW YORK

Man Dies From Yellow Fever—First Fatal Case There in Five Years. Several Others Ill.

New Orleans, Aug. 7.—Dr. J. W. White, head of the marine hospital service, assumed absolute control of the health situation with military power today. Captain Ross has arrived to assume control for the United States treasury department of the revenue cutter service and will put federal flags above the Mississippi and Louisiana fleets and assume charge of them also. Citizens have raised and put into Dr. White's hands $70,000 and promised him enough more to make a quarter of a million to carry on his work. Governor Vardaman of Mississippi, has called out his militia to protect the detention camp at Fontenbleau, which the citizens of that state have threatened to burn. He says there will be no burning.

New York, Aug. 7.—One man died of yellow fever at New York's detention hospital at quarantine, making the third case of yellow fever discovered on ships entering New York and the second death. "This is the first time in five years," said Health Officer Doty, "that New York has been threatened by more than one yellow fever case in a summer. Not one of these fever cases has come from the fever districts in the United States. Panama has supplied them all, and this is the first time since 1897, according to the official health records at the port of New York, that fever cases from Panama have been either threatening or numerous." The latest victim's body was cremated. There are at quarantine 15 other passengers taken off ships because their temperatures were at least 98.25 degrees, the lowest danger signal for yellow fever suspects used in examining the ships which enter New York. Only two of these persons are from New Orleans. All except one of the others are from the Panama district.

Government in Control.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Active control of the yellow fever situation in New Orleans by the United States public health and marine hospital service will begin immediately. Orders to that effect were wired to Surgeon J. H. White, the marine hospital officer now on duty in that city. These orders followed the receipt from Dr. White during the day of several telegrams which showed that the citizens of New Orleans had promised their hearty and unrestricted co-operation in the work to be undertaken by the federal government, and would meet certain financial requirements imposed by the marine hospital service as a preliminary to assuming the responsibility.

Situation at New Orleans. New Orleans, Aug. 7.—The fever report is an improvement over those during the middle of the week, and the fact that there were only two new sub-foci, one up town and one down town, is a source of special encouragement. An effort is being made to determine the number of cases of fever under treatment, and allowing 10 days, which is a liberal estimate for a patient to recover or to die. Now cases 28; total cases to date, 533. Deaths 8; total deaths to date, 165. New substitute foci, 2; total substitute foci to date, 93.

TOTAL CASES 513

NUMBER DEAD 105

New Orleans, Aug. 7.—The yellow fever cases now number 513 and the deaths 105. There were 29 new cases and eight deaths yesterday. Three new cases are reported from Shreveport and one from Bon Ann. near Lake Charles.

Bowser Takes A Day Off

Why He Didn't Go on a River Excursion to Which He Had Been Invited.

MRS. B. REFUSED TO GO

Family Dispute Over Nature of Club and Subsequent Trouble For Head of the Household.

[Copyright, 1905, by R. B. McClure.]

WHEN Mr. Bowser reached home the other evening he found a letter which had been delivered an hour before, and after reading it he smiled broadly and said: "Well, that comes in handy. I was thinking of taking a day off pretty soon."

"What is it?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"Well, I have been elected a member of the G. O. B. club and have been invited to go on a steamboat excursion tomorrow. All members are privileged to bring their families. We will have a merry day of it."

"And what is the G. O. B. club?"

"The Gay Old Boys. No one under forty can join, and all the members must be good fellows. I sent in my name over a month ago, and that I have been elected may be considered a great honor. The club was founded years and years ago. William Lloyd Garrison, Charles Sumner, Henry Ward

ONLY THE CAT SAW HIM OFF FROM THE FRONT STEPS.

Beecher and other prominent men of their time were members. They give steamboat excursions in the summer and parties in the winter and are noted for the way they do things. The steamers start at 9 in the morning. We will be all ready."

"I don't think I care to go," replied Mrs. Bowser as she reached for the letter.

"What! What's that?"

"I don't care to go. I don't like the name of the club."

"But what on earth has the name of a club to do with going on an excursion and having a good time?"

"If the members are Gay Old Boys, then their wives must be Gay Old Girls, and I don't like the idea of it. It doesn't sound a bit dignified. I presume that half the crowd will be tipsy before the boat leaves."

"You have no business to presume any such thing. Do you think a man like Charles Sumner would have anything to do with a tipsy crowd? He and his wife used to go on all the excursions."

"What's this?" queried Mrs. Bowser as she read the letter. "The name of the steamboat is given here as the Pegleg. That's a nice name for a boat."

"But what has that got to do with it?"

"And it says that she is to leave from Bowlegged wharf and proceed to Jackass island and return. It looks to me as if some one was making game of you."

"That's you, of course. You are always finding naves' nests. It's just their hilarious way. The Mousons and Odd Fellows and Sons of Temperance often get out such circulars. They give a spicy touch to the thing, you know. I want you to be ready by half past 8 in the morning."

"But I shan't be. I am not going off with any crowd that calls you an ancient baldhead. Some of them might be making fun of my feet before I got back."

"Nobody has called me an ancient baldhead," shouted Mr. Bowser.

"Well, what do you call this paragraph?"

"The honorable, ancient and very hilarious secretary is pleased to announce to the ancient, frolicsome and baldheaded Bowser that he has been elected a member of the gamboling club."

"That is simply a bit of fun. I guarantee that you will find them the nicest people in the world and that we will have the time of our lives."

"You can go if you wish," replied Mrs. Bowser as she set her jaw. "But I will remain home. There's no use dragging me off when I don't want to go. You can be as ancient and frolicsome and baldheaded as you wish."

"You positively refuse to go, do you?"

"I shall stay home. I went with you on a club excursion three years ago, and we had a narrow escape of our lives. I'll pack you up a lunch, and you can be at Bowlegged wharf in plenty of time to take the Pegleg."

"Have I got an idiot for a wife?" exclaimed Mr. Bowser as he sprang up and began to pace up and down.

"You have."

"Then that settles it, and we will say no more about it."

Mrs. Bowser tried to start conversation a dozen times over during the next three hours, but he refused to be placated. He went to bed still sulking, and when he awoke in the morning he had nothing to say until breakfast was finished. It was seen that he had on his outing suit, and when he rose from the table he observed:

"I am going to the excursion. There will be plenty of lunch on board. You need not expect me till I return."

"I hope you will have a nice time," replied Mrs. Bowser.

"Don't worry your gizzard about that."

"I should like to have gone with you, but—but—"

"But you are an idiot."

With that a parting shot Mr. Bowser was off. Only the cat saw him off from the front steps. She had heard the affair from the beginning, and as the ancient and frolicsome baldhead went up the street she said to herself:

"There goes a man who is going to get his nose skinned before he sees home again."

The programme said that Bowlegged wharf was between First and Second streets, and Mr. Bowser had no trouble in finding it. There were about twenty members of the G. O. B. club standing around, none of whom had brought their wives or daughters, and there were about fifty men and women who didn't belong to the club. Tickets had been sold to any one who would buy. When the new member had bought one he introduced himself to a member of the organization and sought to get up a fraternal feeling. It was no go.

"Where's your badge of membership?" asked the man as he showed his suspicions.

"I—I dunno. They didn't send me any."

"Then who's to know that you are a member of the club?"

"But would I lie about it?"

"I can't say as to that. If I were you I wouldn't go to crowding myself in until I had a badge."

"I tell you I'm a member of the G. O. B. and have an invitation to go on this excursion."

"Then get aboard the steamer and be hanged to you! You seem to think you are the whole show."

Mr. Bowser replied that the G. O. B.'s could go to Texas, and he was on the point of going home when he got mad and determined to stay. He therefore cocked his hat over his ear and walked up the gang plank and looked for a seat. He had found one when a man wearing the badge of the club came along and yelled at him:

"Didn't I tell ye that these chairs was reserved for members of the club?"

"No, you didn't, but if they are I have a right here. I am a member myself."

"Where's yer badge?"

"I haven't any."

"Then your card of membership."

"It hasn't come yet."

"Say, old snoozer, don't attempt any funny business here. Get along with you."

"I say I have a right!"

Mr. Bowser was seized and whirled around and run forward, and when given a last push he fell over a chair. When he got up a man with a sporty look said to him:

"Why didn't you wait till we got started before getting drunk?"

"I'm no more drunk than you are!"

"Well, don't get peppery over it. Do you want to make a good thing of it today?"

"I want to see the man who pushed me in the back!"

"Cut it out, cully. They are on to you bigger'n a house on this boat. Why didn't you change your lung? However, I can offer you a good thing. Great place this to work the shell game if you will cap for me."

"You—you scoundrel!" gasped Mr. Bowser as he realized that he was being taken for a fly man.

"Take that back, cully!"

"I won't do it!"

The sporty man walked away and conferred with three or four wearers of the G. O. B. badge. Mr. Bowser stood breathing hard as they came up to him in a body.

"See here now. But who are you?" asked the leader.

"None o' your business."

"Oh, it ain't, eh? Fellers, he's a slick one and out for the dough. He claimed to me awhile ago that he was a member of the club, but he can't hoodwink me. Rouse mit him!"

Four men grabbed him to run him ashore, but as he fought back they steered him in another direction, and, reaching the rail of the steamer, they lifted him up and hove him overboard. Then they turned indifferently away, and Mr. Bowser would have gone down among the fishes but for the captain of a sand barge.

At 10 o'clock a dripping figure got out of a back in front of the Bowser mansion.

At 10:01 it opened the gate.

At 10:02 it ascended the steps.

At 10:03 it entered the door.

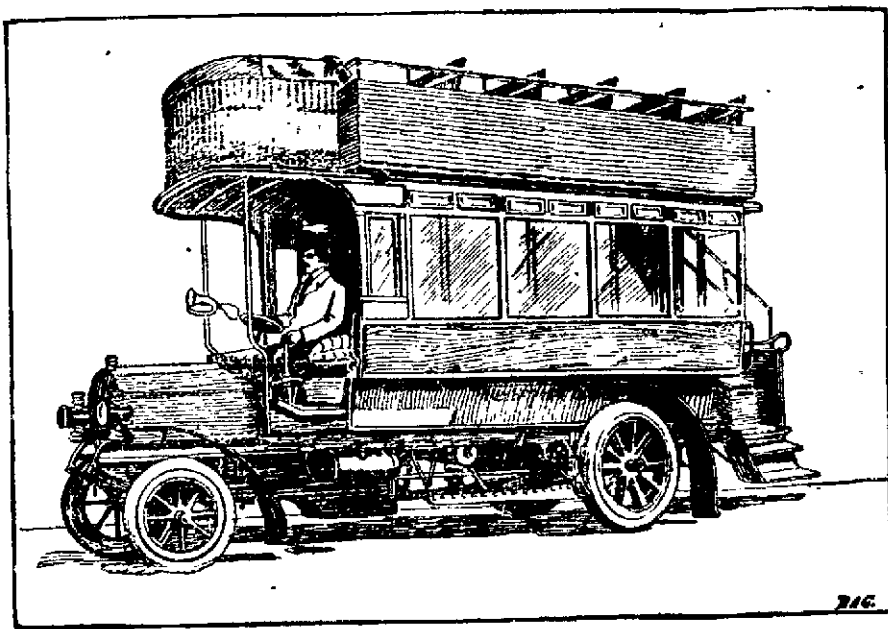

At 10:04 it shouted at Mrs. Bowser:

"Woman, your seventeenth attempt to assassinate me has failed! We will consult our lawyers and settle this thing within an hour." M. QUAD.

A Woman's Curiosity.

"Yes," he said, speaking confidentially, when she had consented to sit down beside him in a dark corner, "my wife is horribly jealous of me."

A MOTOR OMNIBUS POSTOFFICE. The Isle of Wight has the finest roads in Great Britain, and that fact suggested the establishment of a line of motor omnibus postoffices, one of which is shown in the illustration. These cars carry passengers and have letter boxes in which mail may be deposited. Postal business of a simple nature is transacted by the man in charge, and some of the vehicles also carry circulating libraries.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

There is no doubt about it; we all know it right away. It won't be a pleasant day. We can tell it by his footsteps as he moves about the room— It will be a day of gloom. We can hear some exclamations that are clearly indications. He has got out from the left side—'twas the wrong side, sure, instead Of the right side of the bed.

The bathroom door has opened, and in angry tones he yells— It is one of father's spells. Some one's misplaced the towels—those upon the rack are used— How the poor man is abused! He now proceeds to wonder What the nation! Why in thunder! Who the dickens touched his razors! He is surely raising Ned. It's the wrong side of the bed.

He is coming down to breakfast, and the coffee will be cold. And the eggs—confound 'em!—old! The toast he'll find is sinful and the cakes unfit for food— In his present surly mood. He is—as Johnny whispers, though his lips are white with fear— A bear with a sore ear. The family all tremble, and they've really cause for dread— It's the wrong side of the bed. —Chicago News.

A Son Stroke.

Ants.

The American truth teller was in form. "Talking of ants," he said, "we've got 'em as big as crabs out west. I guess I've seen 'em fight with long thorns, which they used as lances, charging each other like savages."

"They don't compare to the ants I saw in the east," said an inoffensive individual near by. "The natives have trained them as beasts of burden. One of 'em could trail a ton load for miles with ease. They worked willingly, but occasionally they turned on their attendants and killed them."

But this was drawing the longbow a little too far.

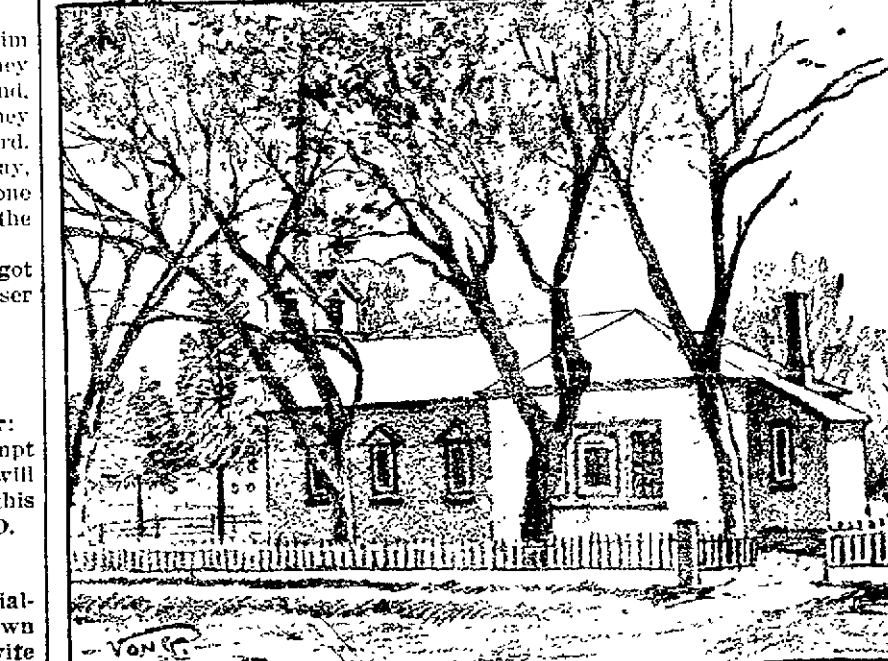

"I say, old chap," said a shocked voice from the corner, "what sort of ants were they?"

"Elephants," said the quiet man.—London Tit-Bits.

NEW NATIONAL HOLIDAY.

To Commemorate Date of Framing of Constitution.

It appears rather strange to me, says William F. Welch in Harper's Weekly, that not one of the forty-five commonwealths in our republic has ever considered the date of the framing of the constitution of the United States of America at Philadelphia as worth commemoration by the enactment of a legal holiday. Some of the states observe holidays local in significance and not recognized by their nearest neighbors. It is plain that Sept. 17, 1787, was second only in importance in our history to July 4, 1776. If the Declaration of Independence is the cornerstone of a glorious republic, the federal constitution is the completed edifice of a magnificent Union. Without the constitution the Declaration becomes of little value. The 17th day of September should be observed with patriotic veneration.

The great instrument of nationality, for the preservation of which hundreds of thousands of our loyal citizens gave their lives, ceased to be an experiment after nearly eighty years of test and strain. It has meant far more since 1787 than before the final overthrow of the doctrine of state rights, and it will mean still more to us with each coming year. Intelligent citizens ought to be perfectly familiar not only with its spirit, but with every section and clause. It certainly is well worth an hour's time on every anniversary of its adoption by the members of the constitutional convention to study it carefully and weigh just how near our government at Washington comes to respecting its imperative provisions.

Strange Mourning Fad.

Honestly, the board walk at Atlantic City, N. J., is a queer place, says a staff correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, but surely there is no place where so much that is odd and eccentric gets into notice. There is a touch of the French boulevard about it, in that everybody knows the personalities, the characters and the freakishness in the promenade. For instance, take the woman who has started a new fashion in wearing mourning. Who she is and from where she comes is not known, but her method of mourning is unique. She wears all white or black or cream, gray or lilac. Across her chest she wears a badge of heavy white ribbon on which is printed in black letters "In Memory." How any mind came to think of this it is difficult to reason out. One would not be surprised next to see a girl wearing a wreath of immortelles on her head. Yet it is possible—nay, probable—that a dozen or more will follow this fashion and return to their homes saying it is the latest thing in the east.

TEACHER—Nellie, name three kinds of grain used in making bread.

Nellie (aged six)—Flour, baking powder and soda.

Mamma—Why, Johnny, you have eaten more than your share of the berries!

Johnny—That's all right, mamma. Minnie ate most of the cake we stole yesterday.

"I wonder what's the matter with my eye," said Elmer. "It hurts every time I rub it."

"Then don't rub it," said his mother.

"But," said Elmer, "how can I tell whether it hurts if I don't rub it?"

Little Elsie—Mamma, please give me some more paregoric.

Mamma—Why, Elsie, you surely haven't another pain, have you?

Little Elsie—Not now, but I'm afraid I might have one tomorrow.

Ry and by, when small Fred had finished sobbing, he said, "Mamma, you told a story."

"Why, Fred, what do you mean?" asked his mother.

Hope on, Hope Ever.

"When I was twenty-one years of age," said the scanty haired passenger, "I thought if I wasn't rich enough to retire at thirty I would be too old to enjoy wealth."

"How old are you now?" queried a knight of the sample case.

"Seventy-two," was the reply.

"And you are a millionaire, I suppose," said the drummer.

"No," answered the old man. "I'm as poor as Job's turkey, but I've got a scheme on tap now that will make Carnegie's pile look like 30 cents by the time I am seventy-five, and then I propose to settle down and enjoy life."—Detroit Tribune.

Father's Answer.

Vincent was altogether too garrulous in school to please his teachers. Such punishments as the institution allowed to be meted out were tried without any apparent effect upon the boy until at last the head master decided to mention the lad's faults upon his monthly report.

So the next report to his father had these words:

"Vincent talks a great deal."

Back came the report by mail duly signed, but with this written in red ink under the comment:

"You ought to hear his mother."—Harper's Weekly.

"You can't fool all the people all the time, you know."

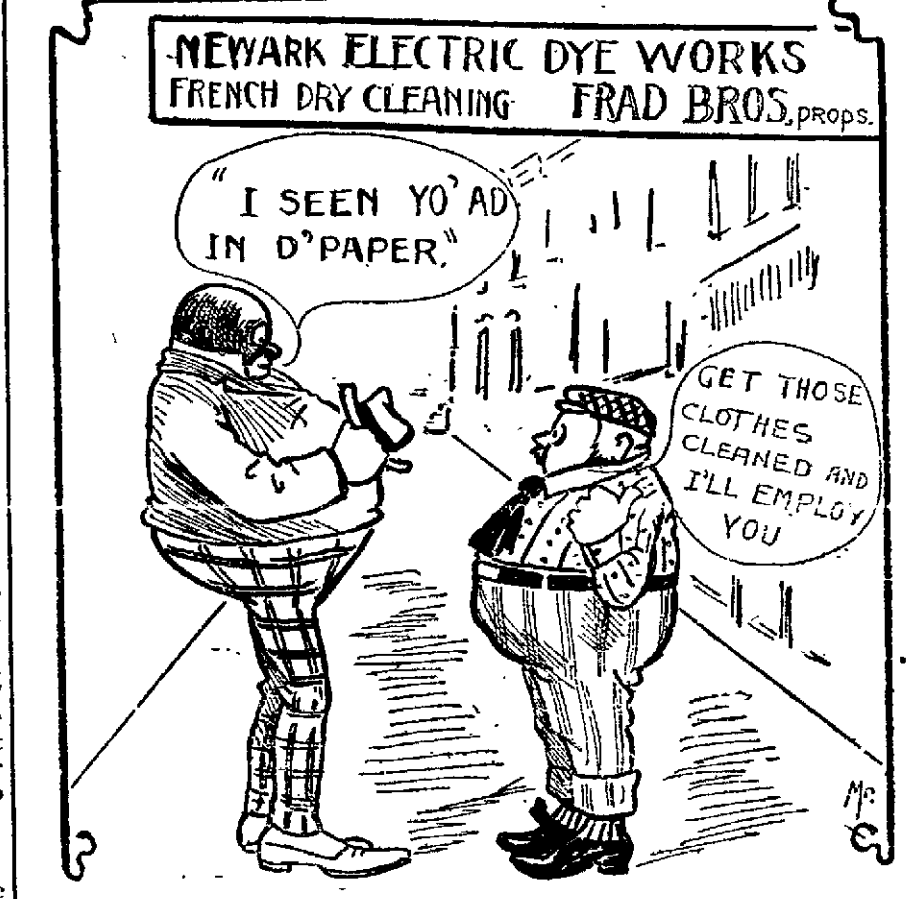

"Yes, curse it," replied the man with the get-rich-quick scheme. "I know. Some reporter always comes along sooner or later and puts them next."—Denver News.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, acid uric troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and one dollar bottles are sold by all good druggists.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Birmingham, N. Y., on every bottle.

The aggregate appraisement of said property is $207,250.00. Dated at Newark, Ohio, August 7, 1905.

AMUSEMENTS

The week's bill at Idlewild may easily be pronounced one of the best all-around vaudeville bills witnessed in Newark. The bill includes such artists as Sutton and Sutton, John Geiger, and his talking violin, Charles Nelson
Haight and Laura Dean, Grace Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Cal Stewart.

It is possibly not generally known that Mr. Stewart is the artist who prepares for the public the "Josh Wethersby" records for the Columbia graphophone company.

John Geiger and his remarkable work with the violin is the feature of the bill.

The program is interspersed with overtures by the theatre orchestra.
Their rendition of "William Tell" is excellent and they have met with hearty applause after every number.

Bad news reaches this city again regarding the Robinson Opera company, which appeared at Idlewild a little while ago. It is reported that Charles French, the manager of the company, left very suddenly with his family and the funds of the company, after the Saturday night performance in Mansfield, and the members of the company who were not fortunate enough to have railroad fare were forced to "send for" some. It is understood that there were some Newark people about to join the company.

county after living there many years.
Ferdinand was united in marriage to

WHERLE PLANT IS SOON TO RESUME

SPECIAL OFFICERS ARRIVE FROM PITTSBURG TO GO ON DUTY AT FOUNDRY.

Within a Week It Is Intended to Have the Entire Plant in West Newark in Operation.

The prospects now are that the big Wherle stove plant will be running again in a few days with a large force of men employed in all the departments. On Monday it was learned from a reliable source that it is the intention of the company to open all the shops north of the railroad on Thursday, and on Monday of next week, if nothing occurs to prevent the whole shop will be reopened. Although no trouble of any kind is anticipated, the Wherle people, in order to protect themselves and their employees and property from interference, have secured a large number of special officers from outside the city. Sunday night twenty-three detectives from the Perkins agency, Pittsburgh, arrived here and are quartered at the Manhattan hotel, and seven more are expected to arrive Monday night. This with the twenty detectives from Cincinnati that are already on duty will make 50 in all. The 23 men from Pittsburgh were sworn Monday morning by Mayor Crilly.

HOMER SPARKS GOING TO ENGLAND

NEWARK THIRDPY IS ABOUT TO MAKE THIRD TRIP ACROSS ATLANTIC.

In An Attempt to Establish Claims of Americans to Francis E. Drake
Estate Worth Millions.

In an attempt to establish the claims of several Americans to the Francis
E. Drake estate, in the county of Devonshire, England, Attorney Homer
H. Sparks of Newark will soon leave on his third trip to England. Other lawyers are delving into the ancient law and records in England and the records of centuries are being resurrected.

The Devonshire estate, Mr. Sparks says is estimated to be worth $7,000,- 000. In Ohio and Illinois there are about 200 persons, he says, who maintain they are heirs.

In the claims of the American lit-igant there is a peculiar legal question involved. They are claiming the estate has descended to the present owner,
Sir Francis Elliott Fuller Drake, through a female line, and that this,
under the ancient law, will not hold.
They say, too, that the present Sir
Francis has assumed the name Drake without any legal or moral right.

Mayor Tom L. Johnson's action in stopping pool selling in Cleveland recently incensed the horsemen of the city, but it turns out that there was a Cox scheme on foot to have him removed from office by the Governor in case he, Johnson, failed to enforce the law. The Cox municipal code gives the Governor power to remove a Mayor on charges of failure to enforce the law, and a nice scheme was hatched to catch Johnson for neglect of duty in case he failed to enforce existing laws against pool selling. Johnson, however, was not caught napping, for he always enforces the laws of the State, and Herrick was deprived of the cheap glory he expected to reap. But the trick shows how desperate Coxism is coming to be.

In pursuance of his determination to secure an honest election in Philadelphia Mayor Weaver has caused instructions to be issued to the police to supply the names of all the election officers and assessors in their precincts. It was discovered some time ago that a number of alleged assessors did not live in the wards where they were supposed to have performed their duties, and that apparently they had no existence under the names credited to them. It is also known that it has been the practice of the Durham machine to import men from Washington and other cities to act as election officers. These men unhesitatingly committed the grossest frauds and then disappeared. Mayor Weaver proposes that henceforth the assessment of voters shall be made by persons who are known, and that elections shall be conducted by residents of the election districts. This will no doubt result in a more honest registry of voters and prevent wholesale election frauds such as have heretofore been perpetrated with impunity in the Quaker City.

trated with impunity in the Quaker City.

The Cox organs continue to insist that the campaign in this state is the very thing on which the success of President Roosevelt's administration depends. One of these organs declares that the verdict of the people of Ohio in November will be on the president and his administration. That is how the Republican organization sheets view it now but in the event of a Republican plurality, a very doubtful event, by the way, George B. Cox and Governor Herrick will claim it as a personal vindication. President Roosevelt and his administration wouldn't cut any figure then. The vote of Ohio in November is going to be a verdict on Cox, Herrick and Dick methods in Ohio, and should a Republican plurality be rolled up then it will be notice that those methods may be ousted further, that Cox may run the Republican organization and that a "splendid Republican majority" in the legislature may continue to enact the greatest outrages in legislation and filch from the people of the state and its cities their rights and privileges.

The Cox Machine Numbers 50,000.

(Youngstown Vindicator.)

The Columbus Citizen says that the Ohio Republican machine numbers about 50,000 cogs. The Republicans have in the federal government from Ohio two senators, 20 congressmen, one member of the cabinet, one assistant United States treasurer, three collectors of customs, two appraisers of customs, four collectors of revenue, one pension agent, 16 consular officers, one supreme judge, 61 judges and attaches of United States courts and 66 referees in bankruptcy and an army of government clerks not countable. In the state government the Republicans have 18 elective heads of department, 29 senators, 83 representatives, 31 legislative clerks, six supreme judges, 446 clerks in the state capital building and members of boards, 22 circuit judges, four superior judges, 85 common pleas judges, 12 judges and attaches of insolvency courts, 54 trustees of state institutions, 79 officers of state institutions besides several hundred minor employees of these institutions, 1030 county officials, about 1200 justices of the peace, about 2500 township trustees, about 2300 township clerks and treasurers, 4020 important municipal officers, about 7000 election officers and enough subordinates appointed by the chief officers above enumerated to make the Republicans on the public payroll from Ohio fully 50,000. The machine has been strengthened from time to time as victories have been won. From these figures some idea of the strength commanded by the political boss in this state may be had, but there is nothing in the showing to cause discouragement. This is an exceptional year and a time when people are being aroused and awakened to the issues and the dangers that threaten. The city of Philadelphia for years has been a place of machine politics where offices and positions and every part of the public service have been cogs in the machine which defied public sentiment, and even after the fight on graft and corruption and machine methods had been commenced by Mayor Weaver the machine boldly declared that it did not fear him or the aroused people of the municipality. The machine has been badly smashed, and the same result can be accomplished in Ohio where the people are the most stirred up are Republicans themselves, seeing as they do the manner in which their organization has fallen into the hands of the Cincinnati boss for whom legislation and administration have been turned over. There will be a reckoning at the polls in November next if the signs of the times are to be taken as unmistakable.

EDISON'S NEW BATTERY

Powers of His Invention Described by the Wizard.

CAN PROPEL A TWO TON TRUCK.

Single Charge Will Drive an Ordinary Automobile a Hundred Miles. Recharging Problem For Touring Vessels Not Yet Solved—Big Factory to Be Built.

Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, announced recently at his home, in Orange, N. J., that after two years of experimenting he is finally satisfied with the merits of his new storage battery and that he will at once begin the erection of a factory to manufacture the cells on a large scale for the trade, says the New York World.

This is the latest, and, while not the greatest of the wizard's many inventions, it is an accomplishment for which many electricians have been striving many years.

The cell as now perfected will drive a two ton truck at a rate of thirty-three miles an hour, with half the weight of the old method.

A small dealer can operate a delivery wagon with its power at 38 per cent of the cost of maintaining a horse. An ordinary automobile will run 100 miles under ordinary conditions without recharging. Under the most favorable conditions 150 miles can be covered at a speed of twenty miles an hour.

More than these facts have been claimed for the cell by others, but it was not until the other day that Mr. Edison himself would even speculate as to the possibilities of his new invention. The wizard has experimented with 14,000 cells to perfect one.

The storage cell is small and incased in iron. Instead of containing the old lead plates of the original battery, it contains alternate plates of iron and nickel in a potash lye solution.

"The troubles in the battery I have been trying for two years to remedy have been purely mechanical," said Mr. Edison. "They have been greatly due to the swelling of the nickel element. I have succeeded in reducing the weight of the battery from forty to forty-five pounds per horse power. It has taken time to find out what was needed for this battery, because we cannot look ahead and see just what such a thing is going to do after we have it sketched on paper. In the two years I have been experimenting we have turned out some 14,000 cells of the battery and have operated 100 auto vehicles."

"I do not pretend to have solved the problem for touring vehicles. That can only be possible when more charging stations are spread about the country. Young Cooper Hewitt of New York has helped solve that problem with his mercury rectifier, which takes the place of the old transformer and makes it possible to convert the alternating currents used in small towns so as to make them available for charging the batteries."

"With proper motor and wagon equipment we can take our cells and operate an ordinary delivery wagon for 38 per cent of the cost of maintaining a horse."

Mr. Edison appeared to be in better physical condition than he has been for a long time. His face is full and he has a better color. He said that the trouble with his stomach, from which he has been suffering for several years, is greatly improved. Mr. Edison attributes the improvement to constant riding in his big steam automobile. The wizard likes outdoor life, and after giving out his statement he said:

"What I want now is a chance to get out in the woods and see the birds and flowers. I like to study them and the rocks and ferns and other things of the woods. It rests me after a long campaign like this."

Murder Bureau For Chicago.

John M. Collins, chief of police at Chicago, has announced that in a few days he will establish a murder bureau under the direction of Assistant Chief Schuetzler. The assistant chief will have on his staff eight of the best detectives in the city and will work in harmony with the state attorney's office, says a Chicago dispatch. The object of the innovation is the gathering of evidence. As soon as a murder or any other big crime is committed the "runners" from Schuetzler's office will go to the scene with a photographer and an artist or a draftsman. Every bit of tangible evidence will be picked up, tabbed and used by the detectives in working up the case.

What They Took.

It is reported that on a recent occasion when Arthur Balfour, Joseph Chamberlain, Lord Charles Bessford and the Japanese minister were dining together Mr. Balfour, who was standing treat, asked Mr. Chamberlain what he would have, says Harper's Weekly.

"Thanks, I'll take Scotch, Arthur," was the response.

"And what will you take, Lord Charles?"

"I'll take Irish, Arthur."

"And what will you take?" addressing the Japanese minister.

"I'll take port, Arthur, thanks," was the answer.

Wickedness Becoming "Bad Form." We are getting better every day, says Harper's Weekly. Each fresh exposure of an iniquity helps. We can even now detect symptoms of the happy day when it will be bad form to be wicked.

HYPNOTIC REFORMING.

Denver Judge to Try Novel Method on Young Offenders.

Hypnotism as a means of reforming boys and girls is to be tested in the juvenile court by Judge Benjamin B. Lindsey of Denver, one of the pioneers in juvenile court work. Judge Lindsey is taking lessons of a professional hypnotist and for years has been a theoretical student of hypnotism, says a Denver dispatch.

The first actual test will be made at the September term of court. A boy addicted to smoking cigarettes will probably be the first subject, as Judge Lindsey wishes to accomplish something which will demonstrate his ability to assuage physical cravings as well as bring about a mere mental reformation. Judge Lindsey recently returned from the convention of chorists and corrections, where he met many phenologists, most of whom advised him to attempt hypnotic experiments in the juvenile court.

"My intention is," said Judge Lindsey, "to practice so that I may become proficient. I have long believed in the influence of mind over matter, not that I am inclined to Christian Science beliefs, but merely that study has convinced me that mind is greater than matter and has a correspondingly greater influence. A weak-minded person is led—does not lead others himself—and, though he may have no bad tendencies, will become bad just because somebody who is evil minded wills that this shall be."

"My dealings with children have shown me how true this is. For instance, there are some boys to whom cigarette smoke is decidedly offensive. But the other boys who smoke tell these they will never be manly unless they learn to smoke. In this manner boys are led into the most injurious practices known to modern science not through inclination, merely through influence."

"Now, if this is true, as it undoubtedly is, why should it not be possible for some one to use this influence in precisely the opposite direction? This was the question which set me to thinking, and the more I thought of it the more convinced I was that hypnotism if rightly used might be made a power for good. Experts say the drink habit, cigarette habit and gambling habit are all amenable to hypnotic suggestion. Why should not the 'bad' habit prove equally amenable?"

The child will be placed in a high backed chair opposite Judge Lindsey, with each of his hands in one of the hypnotist's hands and their knees and feet in contact. The subject will then be stared into a state of sleep, which will last from ten to fifteen minutes. During this time the operator will try to impress his thoughts on the mind of the child. The thoughts will be: "It is injurious for you to do thus and so, and therefore you must not do it. You do not care to do it, anyway."

LOVE NOTES IN BALLOONS.

Pie Baker's Aerial Plan to Find a Girl to Marry Him.

J. Schroeder, a pie baker in Kansas City, Mo., has for five years been seeking a wife. Each year on the anniversary of his birth he has sent up a paper balloon in which he previously placed a letter stating his age and that he had a good trade and wanted a wife, says the Kansas City Star. He sent up his last balloon a few days ago. It fell into the hands of a young woman, who sent it to the Star office with the following letter:

While sitting in my front yard tonight enjoying the cool evening I happened to look over in northwest direction and noticed a big balloon come over our way. It hadn't gone very far before it began to burn, and finally it fell in my back yard. On examination I found the inclosed letter. There isn't any one in this neighborhood that wants to be married that I know of and so will turn it over to you. Maybe you can give the gentleman some assistance.

W. F. W.,
2283 Holmes street.

The letter taken from the balloon was written on the business envelope of a pie company and was addressed "To the First Maiden Who Finds or Reaches This Balloon." It read as follows:

Kansas City, Mo., July 22.
To some maiden whose good fortune fate sends this balloon. I am a young man thirty-two years old, fairly good looking and have a good trade (baker). Am looking for a wife; would be pleased to correspond with the finder if a young lady who wishes to marry. If not, possibly she could recommend some one who is willing. I am sending out a balloon on each birthday since age.

J. SCHROEDER.

"Yes, I want a wife," said Schroeder the other afternoon. "There is no humbug about it. I have sent out a letter every year now for four or five years. I have never had any response that looked good, but I am not at all discouraged. I propose sending up one every year until I get a wife. I don't know just how to get one any other way."

Streets Are Cleaned. Grounds Around the Houses Drained and Roads Kept in Order—Stray Dogs Killed. How Jap Soldiers Amuse Themselves in Idle Hours.

The old and the new, the civilization of the east and the west, Chinese and Japanese living together in the same town, the one calmly introducing systems and methods upon their reluctant temporary fellow townsmen. It is curious to see these two peoples so diametrically opposite to each other living, as they are living today, under Japanese martial law, says Stanley Washburn, the Chicago News correspondent, writing from General Nojima's headquarters in Manchuria.

The Chinese are still scarcely awake to the new conditions which have suddenly swept into their towns, and it is with a sort of dazed wonder that they see Japanese activities being carried out on every side. The houses where their most prominent citizens lived a few weeks ago are now occupied by Japanese officers. Sentries guard every street.

With mouths open in astonishment the calm and imperturbable Celestial sees a small army of Japanese soldiers at work in the streets digging ditches to carry off the rain, mending the roads, forcing upon them a scheme of sanitation, cleaning their wells, turning the pigs out of the main streets and requiring them to be placed in pens.

Even the unhappy moth eaten Chinese dog has been struck in this wonderful era of reform. It is his habit to camp with his friends in the main streets, in the side streets, in the compounds (grounds around the houses), under the table, in the stable. In fact, his name is legion, and at every step one falls over this unhappy creature, the substitute for a modern garbage department. The Japanese cheerfully announced to their astonished wards that all dogs would be sentenced to death that were not properly tagged with the names of their owners about their necks.

The Chinese were still discussing the meaning of this grave problem when the day of judgment came. The next rising sun brought desolation to many happy canine homes. Few dogs were to be seen in their customary haunts, but, ah, woe, in a compound up the street was the explanation. Two hundred canine hides were visible drying in the sun. Now every dog is labeled.

Schemes for social reforms, political reforms, taxes for keeping the roads in order and I know not how many more are going merrily forward, all in behalf of the Chinaman who finds himself being civilized before he knows it. Nearly every compound is now drained, and when it rains we actually walk in the streets instead of swimming, as we formerly did.

If there ever was a people who carry their country with them it is certainly these same Japanese. In their idle hours the soldiers build Japanese gardens. Small artificial lakes are dug and bordered with stones. Little bamboo bridges are constructed and the quaint Japanese lanterns of stone are placed about in the garden, made from the flat stones picked up by the soldiers in the country about.

In one of these gardens the soldiers of a company had built a summer house after the kind seen in Japan. Lattice-work was covered with greens and iris blossoms made of paper were strung on strings and dangled overhead. Indeed, in some of these places it is impossible to realize that one is in Manchuria and not back in Japan.

In all the villages of evenings the soldiers play about in the streets like schoolboys. Their officers go among them in the way which makes their relation to their men unique in the armies of the world. When an officer appears, every soldier is on his feet and at rigid "attention," with his hand at salute. Then invariably comes the soft spoken word from the officer, and the military aspect fades from the soldiers' faces, and they crowd about him, laughing and telling him their troubles. The other night I walked through the main street of one of these villages with a couple of officers.

During the walk we passed, I suppose, fifty soldiers, and there was scarcely one that went his way without a joke or a pleasant word from his superior. The result is that whenever they have the time or leisure from more rigorous duties the men fall to with a will and compete with each other in making their officers comfortable. It is in this way that nearly every officer has a little Japanese garden behind his house. One of the lieutenants told me: "I have to be very careful in giving out tasks to my soldiers, for it often happens that I have underestimated the time it will take to complete, and my soldiers sometimes overwork. The other night I set my men a task which I thought could be completed in a few hours. I forgot all about it until the next day, when I found that the soldiers had worked all night rather than disappoint me in failing to have the work finished in time."

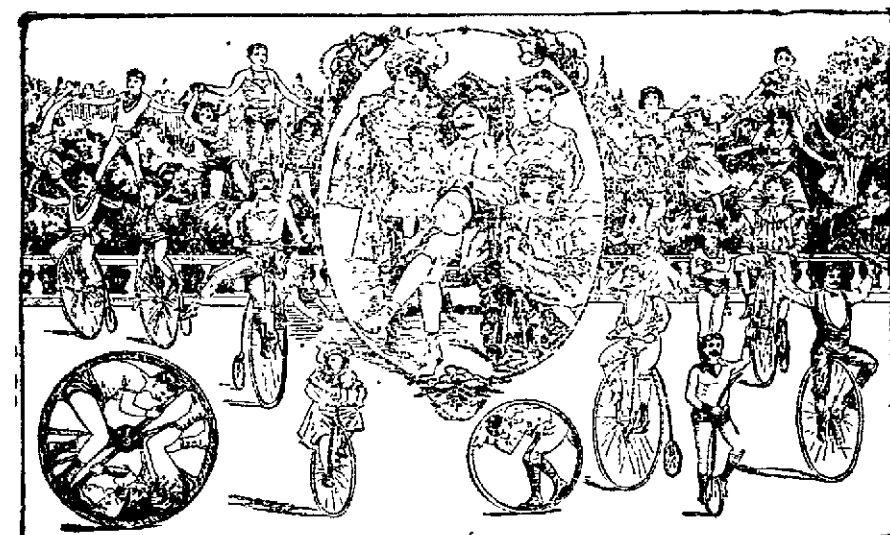

The attitude of the Chinese to all this activity is one of dumb astonishment, yet there can be no doubt that the result of all these object lessons will be to launch the Chinese upon a new era in their social, political and moral life, for, slow as the Chinaman is to learn, even he cannot fail to appreciate the wonderful difference which the Japanese have already brought into their village life.

SUPT. W. A. VEACH

Secretary of Interstate Waterworks Association, Arranging for Convention in Columbus.

Columbus, Aug. 7.--Mr. William A. Veach of Newark, secretary of the Interstate Waterworks association, met with H. O. Pond and Charles H. Frank, president and secretary, respectively, of the Association of Boards of Service of Ohio, and Chief Lauer, representing the Ohio Fire Chiefs' association, all of which organizations are to meet here Sept. 12, 13 and 14, in annual convention, and talked over the arrangements for the convention.

An estimate of those who will attend the convention was placed at 250, including the wives of delegates. The local committee on entertainment, which includes President Pond of the service board, Supt. O'Shaughnessy of the waterworks, Chief Lauer, A. H. McAlpine, A. J. Pray and others, is preparing an elaborate program.

Mr. McAlpine has engaged a famous caterer to come here from Georgia and prepare a novel feast at the storage dam. There will be roast pig, roast lamb and broiled chicken galore and refreshments.

The program also includes light refreshments served at the West Side pumping station, a trolley party to all parts of interest about the city and free admission to the Columbus-Indianapolis baseball game the afternoon of the first day of the convention.

NEWARK MAN IS UNDER ARREST

SEVERAL ENGAGED IN ASSAULT ON TURFMAN ON TRACK AT HUNTINGTON, W. VA.

Dispatch Says W. E. Ingram and Walter Mahew Are in Jail and Others Are to be Put Under Arrest.

The following message from Huntington, W. Va., tells of the arrest there of W. E. Ingram of this city on the charge of fatally injuring a turfman on the race track.

Colonel R. H. Crocker, proprietor of the Arlington hotel and a prominent turfman, was assaulted by half a dozen turfmen at the race course here and is fatally injured. His abdomen was severed with a knife, his lung pierced and one eye gouged out.

"Trouble arose over starting of a race. Walter Mahew of Marion, O., and W. E. Ingram of Newark, O., are in jail and the police are searching for others engaged in the assault."

THE 10c. CIGAR HABIT.

How to Break Off This Expensive and Needless Habit.

No good business man would pay twice as much for his stock of goods as he ought. Why shouldn't he apply the same principle to his cigars?

The 10c. cigar habit is expensive; it is also needless. J. W. Collins & Son have put in a cigar, Wadsworth Bros. "Chico," that is as good as any 10c cigar ever made, yet it retails for 5c. straight.

Just see how easy it is to break off that 10c. cigar habit by smoking "Chico." Stop at Collins & Son's and try a "Chico." See how evenly it smokes, what a 25c. aroma it has, how the ash stays on solid and white, without flicking or dropping. J. W. Collins & Son have the sole agency for Wadsworth Bros. "Chico" for Newark, and as this is naturally a 10c. town, and people are accustomed to a 10c. flavor, it follows that they will have a big trade on these cigars that give a real Havana fragrance and flavor at the 5c. price.

TWICE SENTENCED

(Continued from Page 1.) had made up my mind to die and even courted death that was to last for years until my hair grew gray and my body was old and feeble. I believed when I stood on the scaffold that I was going to heaven and now I was placed in a hell on earth. Still, life is sweet, and knowing I was innocent, there was the hope that some day justice would be done. It came at last, but it came late; very, very late.

"After serving 21 years I was pardoned. Knight had confessed on his deathbed that he killed Bryant and that I was innocent. He confessed, I suppose, because he wanted to make peace with his God before he died. May God forgive him for what he did to me. It was worse, far worse, than the murder of Bryant. They say it is a glorious thing to be told you are a free man when you are a convict, but I did not feel that way. I was too old to begin life again. I went into the penitentiary when I was only 44 years of age, in the prime of life. Everything I had on earth had gone to pay for my defense in the courts and I was a pauper, without home and friends.

"I had never seen my daughter. I ascertained that she was married and living in Fernandina, Fla. She helped me to visit her, and I saw a grown woman who was a babe three days old when her father stood with the hangman's rope ready to strangle him. She was a mother and I was a grandfather. It all sounds very strange, doesn't it? Just like some of the stories you read of in the old-time dime novels, but it is all true; yes, too true. How was my daughter raised and educated? That is another story. You know that convicts are allowed to work overtime and they are paid for extra work. I worked in this way as often as I could, and every dollar I made I gave to the education and the raising of my child. I am trying to be thankful for what blessings have come to me late in life, but the shadow of the gallows and the penitentiary is over it all."

Ordinary household accidents have no terrors when there is a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the medicine chest. Heals burns, cuts, bruises, sprains, instant relief.

THE STONE CUTTERS AND CONTRACTOR PACE

Regarding the stone cutters' strike on Stanbery street, we will say: The committee of Newark branch of the G. U. agreed with Mr. Pace, contractor of the work at Stanbery and Locust to work under the condition that no unfair men should handle their work. Mr. Pace agreed to this before the stone of Stanbery street was ordered. By this agreement we went to work on the 3rd inst.

On the 4th here came one man with setting tools to dig the trenches and set the curb. Under the agreement we could not work, as this man worked against unionism once before on Woods avenue.

Said committee of cutters was called to a meeting of the B. P. S. on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. Sorry no reporter was there, as it would save us all this trouble. Mr. Lamb was in the chair, and Messrs. Livingston and Linke were present, to decide the trouble between the two parties. Mr. Lamb asked for the president of the stone cutters' union. Vice President Fred Altstadt acted in behalf of the union. Mr. Lamb asked the vice president the cause of the trouble between the two parties. The report from the vice president was that Mr. Pace agreed with said committee not to put said man (the trimmer) to work. Under this agreement the stone cutters went to work. Mr. Pace agreed to send first class Cleveland stone. Now, the stone on Stanbery street is Amherst. The stone is just as durable, but it takes more work to cut it. Mr. Pace asked the committee to give bond for the work of the cutters. If Mr. Pace will share the profits of this work the stone cutters will furnish bond.

BODY TO BE TAKEN TO ZANESVILLE

FRIENDS OF LATE JOHN THOMAS FURNISH MONEY FOR RE-INTERMENT.

Man Was Killed Near Pataskala and Was Buried in Newark a Few Days Ago.

A commendable act of the past week, in which true charity and loyalty to friendship was shown, was that of the friends, fellow workmen, employer and business men, towards the late John Thomas, who was killed in a railway accident a fortnight ago near Pataskala, and was buried in Newark before friends in this city were able to positively identify the remains, says the Zanesville Times-Recorder. By voluntary subscription they have made up an amount sufficient to defray the expense of having the body removed to this city, where it will be placed in the family burial plot to rest beside that of the mother.

The movement of collecting the money was first made by George Cassidy, a brick contractor, by whom Thomas was frequently employed. Other friends contributed generously to the fund, business men making up no little amount.

By a law of the state board of health, forbidding the removal of decomposed bodies during the heated season, it will be impossible to have the remains interred in Zanesville until in the fall. The services of a funeral director have been secured and the re-interment will be made as soon as possible.

WOMAN IS FOUND

Miss Mary Tucker, School Teacher, Who Had Been Missing Since July 25, Located in Woods.

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 7.--Miss Mary A. Tucker, the Providence schoolteacher for whom persistent search has been made since her disappearance from Camp Ossipee July 25, was found in the woods of North Lebanon, Me., half a mile from a road leading from East Rochester. Miss Tucker was greatly exhausted and emaciated, but her physician thinks she may recover. The woman was brought to a hotel in East Rochester, where she revived sufficiently to say to her rescuers: "I am so tired, I would like some warm milk." She then relapsed into semi-consciousness. Miss Tucker was found resting on her side on a pile of underbrush. Her clothing was soaked and her feet swollen. She wore a pair of new black high-topped shoes instead of low tan shoes which she had on when she disappeared. Where she obtained the new shoes has not been learned.

Skeleton of a Giant.

Dayton, O., Aug. 7.--In the gravel pits in the vicinity of Dayton several giant skeletons have been unearthed. The most interesting was that discovered in the pit at Edgar's woods. The bones were those of a man of abnormal growth, the skeleton being remarkable for the great length of the arms the left having been used as a pillow for the head when the body was buried. The skeleton had probably been in the ground for centuries as the bones crumbled when exposed to the air.

CENTRAL OHIO IS VISITED BY STORM

BUT NEWARK ESCAPED DAMAGE AND DIDN'T GET HALF ENOUGH RAIN.

Barn Destroyed Near Columbus Center--Bird Hit by Lightning in Mid-air--Freaks of the Storm.

Central Ohio was visited by a heavy storm Saturday afternoon and night, but Newark escaped damage. In fact, this city didn't get as much rain as the people wanted.

A barn was destroyed by the lightning near Columbus Center, but so far as reported this is about the only damage done in Licking county. The storm was particularly severe in Zanesville and vicinity, in Columbus and Franklin county and also in Delaware county.

Barn Hit By Lightning.

Pataskala, O., Aug. 7.--A barn belonging to Miss Zeba Taylor, a half-mile west of Columbus Center, was burned about 8 o'clock Saturday night, having been set on fire by lightning. Edward McFadden, who lives on the place, lost a quantity of hay, a buggy and harness. The barn, a shed and a silo burned. The buildings and contents were insured, but the loss exceeds the insurance.

Storm Severe at Columbus.

Columbus, Aug. 7.--A violent electrical and rainstorm visited this section Saturday night. The telegraph systems suffered heavily and the lightning played many freakish tricks during the storm. An inch of water fell in less than two hours.

Struck in Midair.

Somerset, O., Aug. 7.--Saturday evening people at the residence of E. Holcomb were watching an approaching thunderstorm. A turkey buzzard was seen flying at a considerable height ahead of the cloud, when a flash of lightning struck the bird. It fell as it shot. The bird was dead when picked up, but the body was only slightly injured.

Damage In Muskingum County.

Zanesville, O., Aug. 7.--The severest electrical storm ever experienced here burst over the county Saturday afternoon, leaving a trail of burning buildings behind it.

Five barns, all within a radius of five miles, were burning at one time and all were destroyed. The barns were the property of Peter Cashbaugh, Harry Bethel, Washington Pyle and Geo. Schlitzer. In each instance the barns were filled to the roof with newly harvested hay and grain and the property loss will reach $10,000.

Cashbaugh and Pyle both lost valuable horses.

The residence of F. J. Luby on Maysville avenue was struck by lightning and terribly wrecked. The bolt tore up every room but one and by a miracle all the members of the family were in that one room and escaped injury. The house will have to be rebuilt.

At Bethel church, where the Gillogly family reunion was being held, lightning struck a telephone pole and running down a guy wire shocked Henry Tom into insensibility.

The crowd was thrown into a panic and several minor injuries resulted. Tom will recover.

Hundreds of telephones were burned out and telegraph wires were crippled, delaying trains. Hail and wind damaged crops. The storm was confined to a small territory and lasted but about 10 minutes.

Tented Cities Leveled.

Delaware, O., Aug. 7.--The severest wind and electrical storm of the year struck Delaware Saturday night and from meager reports much damage was done over the county. Havoc was created at the Chautauque grounds, west of town. The big assembly tent was blown down and scores of the tents of the campers were leveled.

Crops at Croton Damaged.

Hartford, O., Aug. 7.--A heavy rain fall, accompanied by a terrific windstorm, visited the region south of this place Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock. Much destruction was wrought to the crops, notably the corn, many fields of which were laid low. The damage is estimated at from $200 in $500.

The Fifth Street Baptist church will give an ice cream social in the Church parlors Friday evening, August 11. Everybody welcome. 6d47

SILENT MAN STONE WON FROM MOGULS

FORMER NEWARK TWINKER DROPPED IN TOWN AND SHUT OUT ZANESVILLE.

Newark Again Does Heavy Hitting In Sunday Morning's Game With Drumm's Men at Idlewild.

It was little trouble for "Silent Man" Howard Stone of last year's Idlewild team to do a few tricks for the Newark bunch Sunday morning at Idlewild park when he was pitted against Curtis Elston and Drumm's bunch of Moguls.

Stone is just as good as ever and from his work yesterday it looks as though he is better. In the nine innings of play, Curt was the only Mogul who could solve the "Silent Man's" curves. He got two hits of the scratchy variety and neither were in the least dangerous.

On the other hand, Curt Elston, the man who got sick on that Fourth of July, just before Chief Sheridan served a warrant for his arrest, got his bumps again. This time it was for nine hits and four runs. Before it was 10 hits and four runs.

The worst pounding was given poor Mr. Elston in the fourth. Snow started the trouble with a single. He was caught by Volk at second on a bunt by Doyle, which was fielded by Elston. Schweitzer connected with a nice one for two bases, sending Doyle to third. Bissell's long single scored both and the little left fielder took second on the throw to home plate. McDonald's single enabled Bissell to chalk up another tally. These three runs, with Bissell's in the second, brought the total to four. Bissell scored in that from a two-base hit from McDonald's bat after himself lifting one over the fence.

The sensational fielding feature of the game was the play made by Volk when he robbed Wratton of a safe hit and whipped the ball to Drumm, completing a pretty double.

Zanesville's Version.
Inability to hit Stone, who recently returned to Newark, with whom he worked last season, and the very rank and file strike and base decisions by Umpire Taylor lost the morning Zanesville-Newark game to the Moguls 4 to 0. Newark did not win the game. Umpire Taylor stole it for them.

Stone fanned no less than 14 Zanesville batters with the help of Taylor. Wide, high and low balls were called strikes on the local batsmen and they weren't even given a chance to hit the ball. Stone only had to pitch three times to each man and he was out.

Zanesville secured but two hits and both of these were made by Pitcher Elston himself. The other eight never connected safely. And to add to this, Jimmy Lucas, who was in right field, dropped a fly that cost Zanesville two runs. Elston allowed nine hits, but deducting the scores that were made on error and figuring on the Moguls doing even a reasonable amount of slick work and fair umpiring, Zanesville should have won hands down.—Times-Recorder.

THREE INNINGS KNEPPER'S LIMIT

POUNDED FOR NINE SAFE ONES AND BIG MAN GETS RELEASE.

Many Rooters Couldn't Get On Cars And Remained At Home. Rooters' Club Discouraged First Day.

Everything broke badly for Snodgrass and his bunch at Zanesville Sunday afternoon. The results were numerous. First Newark got walloped with a 9 to 2 score. Second, the Moguls bumped Knepper for nine hits in three innings and Snow tried to save the game by using Mason in the box after the third, but alas! 'twas too late. Third, Big Knepper was banded his release and took the interurban car for Columbus. Fourth, nearly 100 fans were sore because they could not get cars to Zanesville in time for the game (but they are now glad they didn't get to go). Fifth, the 200 members of Newark's new "Rooters' club" went gaily to the field of battle on rooted like fiends, but it didn't do a darn bit of good and we lost.

Probably the worst result is that the big bunch of rooters who went to Zanesville are sore because the local management assigned Big Knepper for slab duty when he has been in bad form for nearly two weeks. But then there is no use in lamenting. We broke even on the two games and have a pretty fair chance to win today's game.

When the Moguls started in to slaughter the big pitcher, every Newark player got the stage fright and the errors were numerous. Nine hits and four errors in the first three frames sent nine of the Drummers across home plate.

Then in a vain effort to retrieve the lost contest, Snow and Captain Wratton and President Hayes held a powwow and took a vote whether to let the big man continue or relieve him at once. It was three to nothing to put Mason in the box.

Nel did himself proud. He allowed but two little scratch hits and the team managed to pull itself together and only make two errors in the game. No scores were made during Mason's reign, but Charlie Hatch had fully recovered from the terrible 14-hit drubbing he got here on July 29. He allowed but five hits, and these were productive of but two runs. The score:

Saturday's Game.
Akron, O., Aug. 7.—Limric pitched in great form Saturday and Akron batted hard in the sixth inning, which resulted in Newark being whitewashed 5 to 0. Ortleib started with the bat with three clean singles. Callahan started the batting bee in the sixth and was followed by Schwartz, Dithridge, Bedur and Ortleib, all singling, but neither, who doubted Limric never pitched a better game. ### KNEPPER GOT HIS

Sunday Night and Was Not Released Before Afternoon Game As Was Rumored—Felt It Coming.

A story was in circulation Monday morning to the effect that Big Charlie Knepper of the Newark team was banded his release Sunday morning and that the management of the baseball club set him to the box to pitch the game after releasing him.

This report is false. Knepper was released Sunday after the game at Zanesville. There have been rumors current that changes would be made in the Newark team and it is possible that Knepper heard of these proposed changes.

He evidently knew that he was pitching poor ball and no doubt expected his release. In fact, it is said that he was playing for it.

A report which could not be verified has it that Big Charlie had already signed with Zanesville, but this is looked upon as a joke. The Moguls already have a staff of four pitchers and another would be entirely superfluous.

Be that as it may, Newark don't need Knepper and doesn't want him and the only kick the fans have coming is that he wasn't released last week before he lost the last three games for Newark.

LICKING COUNTY GAS IN CINCINNATI

PIPE LINE FROM LOCAL FIELD TO QUEEN CITY IS TO BE LAID.

Capital Stock of Ohio Fuel Company
Will Probably Be Increased to Eight Millions.

Columbus, Aug. 7.—J. M. Garard, general superintendent of the Ohio Fuel company, a natural gas concern, says that soon after Sept. 5, when a meeting of the stockholders will be held, the laying of pipes from the Licking county field to Cincinnati will be pushed. At the meeting the discussion will be on increasing the capital stock from $4,000,000 to $8,000,000. The main pipe will be 18 inches and will be lined through London, Springfield, Dayton and other cities to Cincinnati. The first allotment of the increased capital stock, which will be 25 per cent., is to be issued Oct. 20. The proceeds from the sale of the stock will be used in the extension of the lines.

FLEET OF STEEL CANAL BOATS REACHES CINCINNATI.

They Are Built on New Principle of Propulsion—New Canal Projects Are Revived.

Cincinnati, Aug. 7.—A fleet of six steel canal boats, belonging to the Ohio Canal Boat company, arrived yesterday and is now tied up between Main and Sycamore streets. The boats are all self-propelling and are the first of a big fleet which will soon be placed in operation between this city and Dayton.

The boats are of the screw propeller type, with gasoline motor power and are constructed for light water navigation, and also with a view to the preventing wash of the banks, which would result from the use of unprotected paddle wheels or propellers. Near the stern of each boat is built a wheel box or "magazine" as it is called, which is constructed inside of the boat. The propeller is placed in this and in order to completely cover it with water the air in this chamber or "magazine" is exhausted by a pump, the water immediately filling the vacuum. In this manner, even though the boat is drawing only a few inches of water, the propeller, the blades of which are above the keel, are always immersed, insuring full power. The fleet of boats will remain here for inspection by interested Cincinnatians, and demonstration will be given of the new system of shallow water propulsion.

ABRAM JONES DIES

Passes Away at Age of 80 Years.
Burial Tuesday.

Granville, O., August 7.—Abram Jones, one of the oldest residents of Licking county, died at his home in the Welsh Hills on Sunday morning between four and five o'clock, after an illness of some time with diseases peculiar to advanced age, he being past 80 years old. The funeral services will be held at the late home of the deceased on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Bunyon Spencer, and the interment will be made in the Welsh Hills cemetery. The deceased is survived by one daughter and two sons, being Miss Nettie Jones, who lives at home, Judson Jones of the McCune Crane hardware store of Newark, and John T. Jones of Dorchester, Nebraska. Mr. Jones' life partner passed into the spirit land five years ago. The two daughters, the deceased was a deceased was a most excellent man. A Democrat in politics and a devoted Christian, he lived a life of devotion to duty enjoying the respect of all who knew him, and his death will be sincerely mourned.

MOLDERS' PICNIC

Big Crowd Enjoyed Program Monday
At Idlewild Park. Glenford Band
Furnished the Music.

The fifth annual picnic and outing given by the Iron Molders' Union, Local No. 152, of this city was held at Idlewild park Monday, Aug. 7, and was a success in every particular. There was a large crowd in attendance. A splendid program of events, consisting of all kinds of races, baseball games and other attractions, was carried out. The Glenford Cornet band was in attendance and furnished music for the occasion. Dancing was participated in during the afternoon. It was a gala day for the molders and their friends. No accidents or irregularities occurred during the day to mar the pleasure of the occasion. Thomas Scriminger, 50, attempted to cross railway tracks at Grove City, O., in a covered milk wagon, when a train struck him, killing him and the horse.

PHILADELPHIA'S MUCH DISCUSSED DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

John C. Bell, district attorney of Philadelphia, has attracted much attention to himself by reason of his refusal to obey the instructions of Mayor Weaver with reference to the prosecution of alleged corruptionists whom the mayor is attacking. Mr. Bell's attitude was that he would prosecute complaints, but would not institute them. Elihu Root advised Mayor Weaver to give Bell an opportunity to begin the prosecutions, and if he did not do so within a certain time to go ahead with them himself.

SUN AND MOON TO HIDE FACES

Lunar Queen Will Enter Shadow on August 14 and the Sun
Will be Partly Hidden on the 29th Inst.—Both Eclipses Visible in This Locality—Phenomena Plentiful This Month.

Astronomical phenomena will be plentiful during August, including two eclipses—one of the sun and one of the moon—both partially visible. On the night of Aug. 14, observers will be able to see three-tenths of the lunar surface enter the earth's shadow. A total eclipse of the sun is due to fall on Aug. 29-30, but it will be total only in a narrow path that will belt the earth from Canada to Arabia. The lunar eclipse will begin at 8:08 o'clock on the night of Aug. 14, and the moon will enter the shadow at 9:39 o'clock and the middle of the eclipse will be at 10:41. It will emerge from the shadow at 11:43 o'clock and will leave the penumbra at 1:14 a. m. The eclipse will be visible to North and South America, Europe and Africa. The sun's eclipse is of vast importance to science and astronomers in general. Numerous expeditions will be sent to various points of the world to observe the phenomenon and the big are making extensive preparations for the event, having already established stations of vantage from which to obtain the best possible views and photographs. The path of the eclipse will start in northwestern Canada at sunrise on the morning of the 29th. There it will be total, and will be seen along a belt that will cross the Dominion at the southern extremity of Hudson bay, passing through Labrador and across the Atlantic ocean to Spain, where it is expected the best results will be obtained, as the eclipse falls there at noon. From Spain the path of totality runs across the Mediterranean sea, through Egypt into Arabia, where the eclipse will end at sunset of the 30th. Because of the exceptional advantages presented by Spain, including its accessibility and clear weather conditions at that season, it will be the Mecca for astronomical observing parties. Several American observatories have sent, and will send, observers to that country, while the astronomers of Europe will flock there. The requirement for a good view of the eclipse and the excellence of the photograph, is a clear sky, and this the observers expect to obtain in Spain. Egypt presents a more attractive field in this particular, but there the sun will be declining at the hour of eclipse, and being near sunset will not present a favorable angle for the best photographic results. The Lick observatory of California has sent a party to Labrador to make observations there, and similar parties will be scattered all along the path of totality. Those who desire to see the phenomenon will have to rise early, as the eclipse will begin shortly after sunrise here.

FOUR FOOT SNAKE OVER THE HEAD

Caused Some Excitement on South
Third Street Saturday Evening.
Reptile Was Finally Killed.

Things were pretty lively in the vicinity of the Parrish Furniture store (Scott's old stand), on South Third street, Saturday evening about 8 o'clock. Two women, whose names could not be learned, were walking along the street when they saw a large snake coiled up in the middle of the sidewalk in front of the furniture store. The women were terribly frightened, of course, and one of them ran into Beall's agricultural implement store and the other into the furniture store. A large crowd soon gathered and organized itself into an old-fashioned snake hunt. Mr. T. B. Hurst of the Beall store secured a pitchfork and pinned the snake's head to the ground. The snake writhed and struggled furiously under the pitchfork and in its frantic efforts to escape coiled itself around the legs of one of the men, putting him in rapid motion. The odds were too great, however, and the snake was finally killed after a gallant fight. When streched out it was found that it was a large timber snake, a species of snake rarely seen in cities, and measured over four feet in length. A sunfish weighing over 1000 pounds was recently caught at Santa Barbara, Cal. It was 12 feet long. Cherries were first brought into Europe from Kerasunt on the Black Sea, by Lucullus, about the year 70 B. C.

COSHOCTON FOLKS COMING TO LAKE

NEWARK KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
ARE EXPECTED TO ATTEND
THE OUTING.

Boy Struck By Train and Thrown 40
Feet. Henry Norman's Funeral.
Coshocton News.

Coshocton, Aug. 7.—Local Knights of Columbus are anticipating a great deal of pleasure on the big K. of C. outing at Buckeye Lake, Thursday, August 10. It is expected that about 50 Coshocton knights and ladies will attend. There will be present lodges from Columbus, Newark, Zanesville, Dennison, Mt. Vernon and other cities. Mr. and Mrs. John Williams went to Otsego Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. William's father, Henry Norman. Mr. Norman was formerly a resident of Wills Creek and died at the home of his son, John Norman, of Newcomerstown. He was 82 years of age at the time of his death. Local Elks are contemplating giving a vaudeville entertainment in the near future. They may erect a stage on the lawn of the home of S. H. Nichols on Cambridge road and give an open air "roof garden" for their friends. Grover Lines, a 10-year-old boy engaged on the night shift at the gravel train near Newcomerstown, fell asleep sitting on the end of a tie Saturday and was struck by a train and knocked 40 feet. He was taken to Columbus where his life hangs by a thread. Itching piles? Never mind if everything else failed, cure you. Try Doan's Ointment. No failure there. 50 cents, at any drug store.

CEDAR POINT EXCURSION.

The annual outing of Cedar Camp, Modern Woodmen, will be held at Cedar Point, Saturday, August 19. On above date the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets Newark to Sandusky, fare for the round trip only $1.25. The Special flyer will leave Newark at 6 a. m., will arrive at Sandusky at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Sandusky at 7 p. m. The fast schedule has been arranged for, and no stops for passengers will be made between Newark and Sandusky. Numerous other amusements.

ARTHUR L. JUDSON

Head of Denison University's Music Department Achieves Great Success at Thousand Island Park.

The Granville Times contains the following regarding Prof. Arthur L. Judson, who is well and favorably known by the music people of Newark as the head of the music department of the Conservatory of Music of Denison University: "Denison University is receiving unusual honorable recognition in the work of Professor Arthur L. Judson at Thousand Islands Park, N. Y. "In the great auditorium there before an audience of fifteen hundred, Professor Judson achieved the greatest success of his life. In the 'Romance' by Svendsen, he fairly bound his hearers under a spell, which was broken only when the great concourse demanding encore! encore! "It is especially noteworthy that this is the first occasion in which the inflexible rule of no encore at these concerts has been broken. The Thousand Island Breeze says: "The solo of the evening was given by Mr. Arthur L. Judson, the popular orchestra conductor. He draws a firm rich tone from his violin and plays with good musical feeling, his bowing was especially good." But it is as a director that Mr. Judson has covered himself and Denison with glory. Under him a chorus of 250 and an orchestra of 30 rendered their numbers with a dash and spirit which brought a tremendous ovation. Their first number 'Stadella' Overture by no means an easy composition for orchestra, was given with a wonderful smoothness and quality of expression, which would have done credit to the best symphony orchestra, and which speaks volumes for the value of Mr. Judson's work. "It should be remembered that the real education, by means of orchestral performances, was begun by Theodore Thomas, than whom, no man has done more for musical America. It is well that this work is being carried forward by others and among them by Professor Judson. It may be that in the not very distant future, under his able direction, 'Granville Spring Festival' may rank as a 'Mecca' like unto the Cincinnati May Festival in our own country and Birmingham and Worcester in Europe. "What possibilities for Denison and Granville open here, a three days festival, bringing hundreds perhaps thousands of art loving students to the beautiful village. What an enlargement of Denison influence. What an occasion for the expression of native loyalty and pride." "Carfax."

HORSE FRIGHTENED

And Ran Through Crowded Streets,
But Was Caught Before Any Damage Was Done.

An exciting runaway occurred on Sunday night, but fortunately no damage was done. Mr. Wylie Coffman of St. Louisville drove down to the city to attend services at the Second Presbyterian church and hitched his horse in front of the church. During the services the horse frightened at a passing automobile, and breaking loose ran away. He ran north on Second street to Locust, west on Locust to Hudson avenue and down Hudson avenue to the Public square, where he was caught. The streets were crowded with vehicles at the time and the only wonder is that some one was not hurt.

Railway Telegraphers.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7.—There continues to be a wide variance between the official statements given out by the contending sides in the strike of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers against the Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads. Officials of the roads claim that the strike is practically at an end, and that 12 hours more will see its finish; that strikers are applying for their old positions and that new men are being constantly employed; that regular trains are on schedule time and freight is being moved promptly. On the other hand, President H. B. Perham said that the situation as reported to him is more favorable to the operators than it has been at any stage of the strike, and that he is confident of victory.

Railroad Paragraphs.

It is said that a locomotive stoker has been invented that will consume all smoke made by firing with soft coal and revolutionize the firing methods on all railway engines.

MASON AND DIXON'S LINE RESURVEYED

Old Markers and Crown Stones Used as Door Sills.

Hanover, Pa., Aug. 7.—The resurvey of the historic Mason and Dixon line has been completed by the surveyors jointly employed by the states of Pennsylvania and Maryland. When the legislatures of these states decided not to allow the famous boundary line to lose its markings and drop out of existence, so far as visible signs are concerned, they undertook a work that proved difficult and tedious. The surveyors were obliged to cut a path through the mountains, and they found many of the old markers and crown stones displaced. In Adams county, Pa., one stone was used as a door sill in a dwelling, another in a church, some had been used in bake ovens, and others were lying at considerable distances from their original places. All were recovered, although not without vigorous objection on the part of the people who were using them. The Mason and Dixon line was the result of a dispute between the states of Pennsylvania and Maryland over their respective boundaries as described in their charters, and prior to the civil war was popularly accepted as the dividing line between the free and the slave states. The boundary was marked by mile stones, every fifth one having the arms of Lord Baltimore engraved on one side and those of William Penn on the other.
